QEHS WEEKLY UPDATE 20

I often say at our induction evenings that one of the most important parts of high school is finding your tribe—the group of people with whom you feel at home, connected through shared interests, values, and passions. Extra-curricular activities play a vital role in helping students make these connections, and this week's Winter Concert was the perfect reminder of that.

Tuesday's concert was a truly outstanding celebration of the musical life of our school. My sincere thanks go to Ms Tindall and the dedicated team of music instructors and technicians who support her. Their hard work made possible an evening that showcased the exceptional talent of our students across a stunning range of performances—from saxophone ensembles to the soul band, our superb vocalists, and the choir.

During the concert, Ms Tindall spoke about how music provides a place to belong: a shared love of musicianship that draws students together and gives them a sense of identity and community. Watching our students perform with such confidence and joy, it was clear just how true that is.

Engagement and participation in school life—whether through music, sport, drama, clubs, or any of our wider opportunities—help our young people find their tribe. These relationships, formed through shared experiences and collective effort, often become the friendships they carry with them both in school and long after they leave.

The Winter Concert was a wonderful evening and a powerful reminder of what makes our school community so special.

Respect

Attendance

Regular school attendance isn't just about keeping up with learning — it plays a crucial role in helping young people build the friendships and social connections that allow them to thrive.

When students are in school consistently, they are part of the everyday moments that strengthen relationships: shared lessons, group work, lunchtime conversations, extra-curricular activities, and all the informal interactions that help them feel a sense of belonging. These experiences are how students find “their people” and form the friendships that support them throughout their time at QEHS and beyond. Even occasional absences can mean missing out on these important social moments. Being present each day ensures that students stay connected, engaged, and confident within their peer group.

Netball success

After the Year 11 girls winning the county round of the netball league, they represented the school on Sat 31st at the regional round of the competition. In a tough start to the day the girls played the tournament winners first. After this game the girls just got better and better. With a small squad of 8 players everyone needed to work hard and dig deep. Winning three games and losing to second place by only 2 goals and third place by 1 goal made it a very exciting afternoon. The girls eventually finished an impressive 5th place overall and should be very proud of themselves. Great effort and attitude by everyone involved.

Careers in Sport and Coaching Workshop

Our year 12 sport cohort were fortunate this week to attend a workshop delivered by an external guest speaker Joe Robinson, Sports Development Officer with the Tynedale Badminton Centre and Northumberland Badminton Association. Our sport students were fantastic in their engagement and, following their session with Joe, were able to consider and reflect on the key elements of an effective coaching session in sport. It was great to hear Joe discussing his career in sports development and the qualifications and route he took to reach his current career path in the field of sport. A brilliant session!

For Parents - Lemon8 App

Lemon8 is an app which seems to be growing in popularity. Calling itself a 'lifestyle community' app the terms and conditions, as per most social media, is 13+. The company which owns Lemon8 is ByteDance, who also own TikTok and it's essentially a mix between Instagram and TikTok. Reviews generally seem to be quite positive but one of the big downfalls is that parental features are a little lacking.

It's worth checking if your child is using Lemon8 and if so have a look at this in-depth Lemon8 review.
